

Call for ISB Enterprise Architecture Committee Nominations

The state's Enterprise Architecture Committee (EAC) is soliciting applications for committee vacancies. Selected applicants will serve two year terms, pending Information Services Board (ISB) approval.

State IT Strategies

Washington is leading information technology (IT) transformation strategies to change how IT is planned, developed, implemented, funded and maintained. Current strategies include Shared Services governance, Shared E-mail Services, and Statewide Data Center Consolidation. Improving transparency, accountability, and coordination are critical objectives for success.

Enterprise Architecture Committee Purpose

As a Committee of the ISB, the EAC provides leadership to align executive sponsorship, business goals, and technological strategies across the diverse set of state enterprise business functions and organizations.

The EAC seeks proactive opportunities to guide and optimize state technology investments, help agencies meet strategic goals, facilitate change and complexity; and help agencies manage the state's IT resources as assets within its portfolio of investments. Activities also include, but are not limited to, recommending standards to the ISB that advance the statewide IT Strategic Plan and promote information technology policies.

The Committee meets on the last Wednesday of each month, from 1:00 to 3:00 pm. Members may also volunteer to help steward multi-agency, statewide initiatives.

Who May Apply

Applicants must be state employees. This includes Executive Branch, Judicial Branch, Legislative Branch, separately elected officials, education sector, or any combination thereof.

Applicants must be IT managers or business executives who hold a position equivalent to Chief Information Officer, Deputy Director, Assistant Director, or higher.

Desired Qualifications

- Knowledge of enterprise business processes, people, or technologies;
- Ability to think strategically;
- Ability to represent a state enterprise perspective;
- Ability to dedicate time to participate in public, bi-monthly committee meetings including preparation; and
- Ability to steward initiatives.
